The sense of possibility that the improbable events of and ignited put the thaw to the Cold War, and to the places, progress, and attitudes that that necessary struggle had, in essence, frozen in time. With Spain hostile, any separation of Catalonia could only be highly destabilising, with potential knock on effects in a Europe gradually recovering from the financial crisis. The Catalan movement for independence, as well as a number of internal and strategic errors, seriously misjudged the interest and willingness of the EU to countenance the break up of Spain.
