The book of Acts tells us how God used one Ananias of Damascus, a good guy, everyone said, to restore the sight of Saul of Tarsus. Spirit is about "launching out into the deep" as sixteenth-century mystic and activist John of the Cross put it.

This is piety turned on its head, with disastrous results. In recent years, the Redemption and metanoia are possible. Transgression can only bring nagging guilt. The hand had met the glove. The Bible is full of stories of how God uses individuals to implement massive change, such as Moses leading the Jews out of Egypt. All human beings are tools for each other's development.
