Chris rated it really liked it Sep 15, An inquiry into the career of any first-class novelist invariably reveals that his novels are full of autobiography.

George Meredith before anything else was a poet. The Authors Craft And now, having shown that some alleged differences between the play and the novel are illusory, and that a certain technical difference, though possibly real, is superficial and slight, I come to the fundamental difference between them--a difference which the laity does not suspect, which is seldom insisted upon and never sufficiently, but which nobody who is well versed in the making of both plays and novels can fail to feel profoundly. Without doubt mandarins will continue for about a century yet to excommunicate certain plays from the category of plays. It is true that the The Authors Craft is the reflexion of the soul.

Again and again they think they are creating, by observation, a quite new character. Fiction is autobiography dressed in the colours of all mankind. It is as if he carried an immense weight to the landing at the turn of a flight of stairs, and that thence upward the lifting had to be done by other people.
