She gets opinionated about having an advanced directive and that there is a time to not intervene with heroic medical lifesaving measures which I don't necessarily disagree with but it didn't really fit in with the rest of the book. Lifting off -- A day in the life -- Emotional bunkers -- The amazing Jim -- We're not Trauma Junkie: Memoirs of an Emergency Flight Nurse -- In the dead zone -- Hard lessons -- Blown away on Interstate 5, and other stupid human tricks -- Why I missed Vince's party -- Too close to home -- High drama and low comedy -- Aren't you afraid you're going to crash? I understand that Hudson isn't an author by profession and was ready to make allowances for this but it just didn't grab me like I thought it .

Under normal circumstances, there would be an ambulance there to take us back this moving story, she recalls her triumphs, like the time she performed a surgical cricothyrotomy on a patient as he hung upside down in his overturned car -- in the dark. It wasn't linear, divided by theme, divided by story type
